A CIRCUUS PARADE WORTH SEEING.

The Hagenbeck-Wallace Display of Horses, Animals And Cages is Beautiful.

The movement which was attempted a few years ago to eliminate the parade feature of circus day has signally failed, and the Hagenbeck-Wallace Combined Shows were instrumental in retaining that part of the circus which is enjoyed by thousands who are not able to attend the performances. When this enterprise visits this city September 22, the populace will turn out en masse, for they have the reputation of making a street parade well worth taking time to see.

While only a small percentage of the people can own automobiles and appreciate them, every man, woman and child admires a beautiful horse. For years the name of Wallace has been synonymous for "fine horses," because he himself has always personally taken a pride in horse flesh. When he first embarked in the show business he adopted as a slogan "The finest horses of any show on earth," and that he has lived up to it is attested by the millions of people who have seen the Wallace parade.

The Carl Hagenbeck Trained Animal Shows have always been credited with having the best trained wild beasts ever exhibited, and since these two shows have combined the display of the wild animals in the open cages adds an unusual feature to a parade that has already gained a national reputation because of its brilliancy and novelty.

According to the daily schedule it is the plan to have the parade on the streets at 10 o'clock, and this is generally done. The very nature of the circus business, however, subjects them to unexpected delays at times and they can not always guarantee to be right on the dot. But rather than miss the grandest street parade, the most pleasing one ever witnessed, the public is urged to be in good positions to view it at the usual hour of 10 o'clock.

To the Farmers of Craig County: The Commercial Club has decided to send a corn exhibit, together with other farm products, to the Illinois State Fair, which will be held the first week in October.

The president of our bank, Hon. Alfred Orendorff, lives in Springfield, Ill., and is a prominent factor in state affairs. If you will send your exhibits through this bank they will be given prominent attention.

For the best six ears of corn left at this bank before September 20, we will offer a premium of $3.00.

For the second best six ears of corn we will offer a premium of $2.00.
